Experience™

Windsor Jewelers marked the opening of their new store by hosting “Meet the Real Space Cowboys,” a grand event that included a presentation by Omega watches in celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Omega Speedmaster, the only watch worn on the moon. The evening included appearances by astronauts Scott Carpenter and Charlie Duke during a private VIP reception and a ribbon cutting for the new showroom, for which Omega’s United States president Gregory Swift was in attendance. Windsor Jeweler’s friends and guests interacted with the astronauts and perused NASA artifacts and Omega timepieces throughout the evening. That same day, Windsor Jewelers and Omega sponsored a forum at Winston-Salem State University during which Scott Carpenter and Charlie Duke discussed their missions in space. Gregory Swift presented a limited-edition Omega Speedmaster “Moonwatch” to the university to be used as a special auction item.

No stranger to giving back to the community that has supported them for so many years, Windsor Jewelers attends 15-20 fundraising events per year, including those for the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation’s annual gala, the Humane Society’s “Furr Ball,” local NBA star Chris Paul’s CP3 Foundation, and the Winston Salem Symphony. Just last year, Windsor Jewelers celebrated their momentous 20th anniversary with a unique fundraising event: “Windsor Jewelers Twenty Days of Giving.” Twenty local charities were selected to benefit from a silent auction held over 20 days in the Winson-Salem store, with stunning jewelry and timepieces donated by the jeweler. The highest bidder of each item won the piece, and all proceeds were split equally among the twenty organizations.

With the most prestigious names in horology in their showcases, first-rate service, and an unwavering commitment to their surrounding community, Windsor Jewelers is guaranteed many more decades of success.
